

Dear Finance,

I have lived in several states in my 65 years (with car registration in NJ, NY, FL) and none of them taxed me for having a vehicle sit in my drive-way or garage! So I was surprised to learn that CT does such a thing after I bought my house and lived in it for a time.

I call this (tax) amount "a tax to allow me to park my car in my drive-way" on my check every year. It is ridiculous. My house is not mobile so I can see a "tax" on it; but my car is something that I move almost every day, a car is expensive enough to own/maintain, put gas into; does the state tax people's horses, or bicycles or any other mode of transportation, let's hope not! I am in Big Favor of repealing such a ludicrous "Tax" on vehicles in this state.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Marceau
